A collage of various colored and textured fabrics. The top row shows a series of vertical strips of smooth, solid-colored fabrics in shades of yellow, orange, red, pink, and blue. The middle row features diagonal strips of fabrics with different textures, including a fine woven pattern and a more pronounced knitted or ribbed texture, in colors like grey, red, and orange. The bottom row consists of two smaller square panels: the left one shows diagonal strips of smooth fabrics in green, pink, and brown; the right one shows diagonal strips of smooth fabrics in blue, grey, and brown. To the right of these panels is a vertical strip of fabrics with a fine woven texture in shades of green, yellow, and grey.
